CROWN RECORDS MANAGEMENT IS EXHIBITING AT THE INFORMATION & RECORDS MANAGEMENT SOCIETY ANNUAL CONFERENCE

London, May 15, 2012-- Crown Records Management will be exhibiting at the Information & Records Management Society (IRMS) Annual Conference at the Hilton Brighton Metropole from May 27-29, 2012.

The IRMS Annual Conference is one of Europe's premier information and records management events of the year. The event attracts nearly 300 representatives from the United Kingdom and around the world and is relevant to professionals across all industries. This year marks the 15th anniversary of the show and is looking to be the largest one to date. Some of the keynote speakers include: Dave Snowden, founder and chief scientific officer of Cognitive Edge; Julie McLeod, head of research, information and communication management at Northumbria University; and David Smith, deputy information commissioner and director of Data Protection.

This year's conference will incorporate themes not only directly associated with records and information management, but also will incorporate Information Technology compliance and policy. The conference will include industry-leading expert speakers and major suppliers, provide a friendly atmosphere for professional social gathering geared towards knowledge sharing and networking, and offer through-provoking conference sessions that will ensure the visitors are kept abreast of the latest innovations and products in the supplier market.

Registration for the IRMS conference can be completed on the IRMS website: www.irmsconference.org.uk, or on the first day of the conference, May 27. Registration and the IRMS conference opening begins Sunday afternoon on May 27. The official conference starts Monday, May 28 from 8am – 6pm and Tuesday, May 29 from 8am – 3pm. Additional details are provided on the website.

Visit the Crown Records Management team at the IRMS Annual Conference. They'll be on stand 27 throughout the entire event.
